“Mom, Dad, Here’s How You Can Reach Out To Me”

We recognize the importance of family units within a community and society. The strength of the society lies in the cohesiveness within a family.

So, this talk focuses on inculcating positive parent-child interaction using Process Communication Model® (PCM®).

Workshop Description

In this introductory workshop, parents will discover their children's character strength from their personality. In stressful situations children abandon learned behaviour, resulting in predictable distress sequence.

The good news is that parents can use the PCM® toolkit to manage distress behaviors, effectively U-turning their children's negative traits back to positive communication and take steps to strengthen the bond of family relationship.
